

This series was created to celebrate the unfettered beauty of the region's landscape. The geological formations, along with the natural flora, are delicate yet powerful resources which connects us to the land and to each other. In celebration of this powerful entity in our lives, this series highlights local landmarks. It allows a focus of those of us who have grown used to our environment. It also allows for visitors to become curious about the beauty which surrounds us, which can bring economic prosperity to the region.

The season choice of Fall was a conscious one; original source materials being observed in the fall as well as pun on fall, as if from a height. I felt like this series could be interchangeable with summer if wanted. This style focuses on a somewhat graphic representation of the subject matter in order to facilitate "readability" from a distance. The designs also allow for text to be inserted on the right handside, as per the example given in the call for entry. I am honored to be able to make these for this project. I wish for this series to exemplify our region's beauty in order to further our economic and aesthetic standing. Thank you.
